CARE promotes an integrated and holistic approach and targets women, poor farmers, PLWHA, and marginalized people. CARE is involved in income generation through agriculture, fisheries and livestock activities, natural resources management, revolving funds for water systems, installation of irrigation systems for increasing food production, community forestry, and home gardening activities. CARE has expanded its operations to Ayeyarwady Division where it is focusing on restoration of livelihoods to fishermen, farmers and migrant workers. CARE is facilitating improvements to the overall health and well being of families.

Water and Sanitation

CARE has been implementing a water and sanitation programme country wide as part of an integrated livelihood security approach since the start of CARE operations in Myanmar. Much of this work has concentrated on providing safe drinking water, water for irrigation, sanitation, including fly proof latrine construction, and hygiene promotion. CARE's water and sanitation projects are located in some of the most inaccessible and remote parts of the country. Following Cyclone Nargis in May 2008, CARE initiated water and sanitation projects similar to those carried out in other parts of Myanmar, in addition to pond and well rehabilitation and pond and well excavation. As with all activities, CARE provides technical training to CARE communities to ensure sustainability of all activities.

Shelter and Disaster Risk Reduction

CARE distributed emergency shelter materials, including toolkits, bamboo, rope and tarpaulins, in the immediate aftermath of Cyclone Nargis. CARE was the first agency to provide early recovery materials, such as Nipa palm and wood, which were timely, locally appropriate and ensured protection ahead of the 2009 monsoon. Currently, CARE is implementing a shelter project for landless and vulnerable households in the Delta region, and continues to support communities to develop disaster action plans and increase preparedness against future natural disasters.

Responding to emergencies

With over 14 years of experience working in Myanmar, CARE is well positioned to respond to emergencies across country. Since Cyclone Nargis struck in May 2008, CARE has worked in 196 villages across the affected areas providing food, essential household and hygiene items, safe drinking water and sanitation facilities plus hygiene promotion, and temporary shelter materials to over 288,000 survivors. The response shifted from relief to recovery in late 2008, and now entirely focuses on the rehabilitation of livelihoods (agriculture, fisheries and livestock), semi permanent shelter and disaster risk reduction (DRR), and continued water, sanitation and hygiene, utilizing the strengths and active participation of the communities to ensure sustainability of CARE's work.

CARE Myanmar has various donors including the Governments of Australia, Norway, Switzerland, and the European Commission as well the 3 Disease Fund, Global Fund, the UN and private donors.

As presented in the DRC International Strategy 2011-14, the DRC international work is centered on a range of activities within DRC's two core competences, namely Health & Care and Disaster Management, with three cross cutting strategic approaches affect the way DRC implement its core competences, namely Humanitarian Diplomacy, Partnership and working Community Based. DRC's International Strategy is consistent with the IFRC Strategy 2020 and inspired by ICRC's Strategy.

The Danish Red Cross and the Myanmar Red Cross Society (MRCS) have been in a bilateral partnership since 2004, when the formulation of a community based health programme started. In 2005, the implementation of the Danish Red Cross supported community health programme commenced in three townships, Mogok, Singu and Thepakyin of Mandalay Division. The programme focuses broadly on improving the health and quality of life of residents of mining areas, which are characterized by a high presence of seasonal/migrant workers as well as other vulnerable groups including sex workers and men who have sex with men.

- Background Information : The French Red Cross is one of the founding societies of the Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement (1864).

The French Red Cross Society decided to open a bilateral delegation to the Myanmar Red Cross Society (MRCS) in Yangon, following an evaluation in 2005 after the Boxing Day tsunami. A Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) was signed with the MRCS on the 6th of March, 2007 (validated by the Minister of Health, the Attorney General, and the Minister of Foreign Affairs)

The FRC delegation was opened in July of 2007 and worked in collaboration with the MRCS to develop activities in Disaster Risk Reduction (DRR) in the region of Ayeyarwady (Delta), zone which had been affected by the Tsunami.

The DRR programme was temporarily suspended after Cyclone Nargis hit Myanmar in May 2008, as the FRC teams were entirely dedicated to the emergency response. After some emergency / relief interventions, in the Delta, FRC worked closely with the MRCS to establish early recovery projects. Watsan/HP, Livelihoods, and Health projects were then implemented in the township of Mawlamyinegyun from July of 2008 to April of 2010.

In November 2008, after the initial response to Cyclone Nargis, the development of the DRR programme was restarted. It was officially launched back in January of 2009 with a long term goal to establish a DRR unit within the MRCS and to extend the geographical coverage to all the coastal regions (Ayeyarwady, Rakhine, Yangon, Bago, Mon, and Taninyatharyi). The programme duration was established as 5 years (2009 to 2013).

Sustainable Livelihoods and Natural Resources Management in the Northern Chin State

With the support of the LIFT consortium's funding as well as the co-financing of Oxfam-GB, the program reinforces the activities on strengthening the capacities of local networks of farmer groups working on sustainable agriculture and extends its activities to more than 4,700 beneficiaries in 185 villages. The program enhances coordination mechanisms with other development organizations and promotes coordination activities, capacity building to livelihood stakeholders (local NGOs, public services). The program will also carry out assessment and studies aiming at improving the knowledge of livelihood stakeholders on the current livelihood dynamics and potential opportunities to be supported.

Socioeconomic reinforcement and household poverty alleviation in Northern Chin State

Since 1995, GRET has supported the creation of decentralized financial services with a network of 98 Village Credit Schemes and 5424 borrowers. Thanks to the financial support of the European Commission (Non State Actor budget line), the Micro Finance Program has been able to extend its activities to new areas and introduce a new financial product addressing the needs of the families for starting microenterprise activities. The access to investment capital on a long-term basis and to economic and financial knowledge has enabled the Chin population to improve their income generation activities, reinforce their economic capacities and strengthen their skills on small business management.

Community Development and Agriculture Value Chain Development in the Ayeyarwaddy Delta (Bogale and Mawlamyinegyun Townships)

Since 2008, GRET has implemented several projects aiming at resuming the capacities of local farmers and landless households affected by Cyclone Nargis. In 2011 and 2012, GRET is implementing 2 projects in the Delta under funding from Danish Embassy and LIFT in 90 villages. GRET intervention is aiming at securing the livelihoods of rural communities, building their governance and developing the linkages among the agri-products value chains.

GRET technicians are undertaking trainings and demonstrations to improve the productivity for rice cultivation, as well as other crops (pulses, vegetables, flowers), livestock breeding, aquaculture. GRET is also working on the capacity of the villagers so self-develop their production asset and better manage their farm activity through Management Advice for Family Farms. In consortium with Welthungerhilfe, GRET started a project to develop the relationships between the different stakeholders of the rice value chain (and other crops if relevant). Financial services for farmers will also help them cope with their high cash needs at the beginning of the season. Starting in 2012, GRET will work with MSN (Mangrove Service Network) to strengthen this Myanmar NGO in its intervention on natural resources management.

GRET is determined to enhance collaboration among the several actors of agricultural development through co-chairing BATWG (Bogale Agriculture Technical Working Group) with Welthungerhilfe. The BATWG is undertaking regular collective studies and issuing a bi-monthly newsletter (Bay Dar Pyan Ye Ah Than) to provide feedback from the field.

Dry Zone Livelihood Security through Rural Community Empowerment and Capacity Building

With the financing from Danida, the project contributes to strengthening resource-poor households' livelihoods in two townships of Monywa and Yinmabin in the Dry Zone area through sustainable exploitation and management of natural resources.

Main activities consist of : a/ transfer of improved crops and practices to farmers, the development of rainwater collection systems, Home gardening support, poultry production, integrated pest management through Certified Pesticides applicators, b/ employment of labourers in building or rehabilitation of rainwater facilities and other conservation works, vocational trainings, c/ assessment and design of village action plans, community mechanisms, social water management, reforestation and watershed protection and capacity building of resources persons.

Background Information : In 2004 HelpAge Korea initiated a volunteer-based home care pilot project for older people in Myanmar based on the ROK-ASEAN model with local partner National YMCA. Subsequently, HelpAge International began promoting the role of local partners and community-based groups of older people, referred to as Self Help Groups, Older People's Associations, or Older People's Groups.

Commencing in 2009 HelpAge International, with support from HelpAge Korea (HAK), piloted an Older People Self-Help Group (OPSHG) approach to reducing poverty in Myanmar. The EU supported project is being implemented in 17 villages in the Ayerawaddy Delta and 3 villages in Pyin Oo Lwin township in Mandalay Division. The results of these projects have shown clearly that OPSHGs can become a driving force for socio-economic development in their communities, generating stronger mutual support among older people by reducing their isolation and creating a social support network that can facilitate community development involving different age groups within their communities and strengthening links with local authorities. The OPSHG model has been positively appraised by the Ministry of Social Welfare (MSW) in October 2011 and MSW is currently considering replication of OPSHG to other areas of the country.

HelpAge has successfully implemented a LIFT-funded (Delta) livelihood recovery project in 25 villages in Kyailat using an inclusive VDC approach. This model is currently being replicated to 30 villages in Ayartaw and Mahlaing Townships with funding from LIFT.

HelpAge in Myanmar has been working toward sensitizing the government for making it more age-friendly through a variety of interventions such as capacity building, ownership approaches and partnerships. One of the highlights of our policy work with the government here in the drafting the national plan of action on ageing. HelpAge has also developed a number of strategies to take its policy work with the government forward.

Vision/Mission : Our vision is a world in which all older people fulfill their potential to lead dignified, active, healthy and secure lives.

We work with our partners to ensure that people everywhere understand how much older people contribute to society and that they must enjoy their right to healthcare, social services and economic and physical security

Main Objective : To end the poverty and discrimination faced by millions of older men and women

- We will enable older men and women to have secure incomes.
- We will enable older men and women and those they support to receive quality health, HIV and care services.
- We will enable older men and women to actively participate in and be better supported during emergency and recovery situations.
- We will build global and local movements that enable older men and women to challenge age discrimination and claim their rights.
- We will support a growing global network of organisations to work effectively with and for older men and women.

- Background Information : Through its 186 Red Cross and Red Crescent member National Societies, IFRC is a global humanitarian organization that acts before, during and after natural and manmade disasters at the community level in non-conflict situations.

IFRC's relief operations are combined with development work, including disaster risk reduction programmes, health and care activities, and the promotion of humanitarian values. In particular, it supports programmes on prevention and fighting the spread of diseases, such as HIV, tuberculosis, avian influenza and malaria. IFRC also works to combat discrimination and violence, as well as assisting migrants irrespective of their legal status.

The International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies (IFRC), 186 National Societies and the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) together form the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement. The Movement works in cooperation with governments, donors and other aid organizations to assist vulnerable people affected by natural and manmade disasters, as well as by conflicts around the world. As partners, the different members of the Movement also support communities in becoming stronger and safer through a variety of development projects and humanitarian activities.

- Vision/Mission :
- To improve the lives of vulnerable people by mobilizing the power of humanity
- We strive, through voluntary action, for a world of empowered communities, better able to address human suffering and crisis with hope, respect for dignity and a concern for equity.

Main Objective :

Disaster management

Disaster management is central to the mission of IFRC and its member Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies. Together, it is the largest humanitarian provider of disaster assistance to the world's most vulnerable people. Through global, regional, national and local programmes, IFRC provides disaster preparedness, response and recovery services. These activities aim to reduce disaster impact, alleviate immediate suffering and re-establish livelihoods.

Development

IFRC supports member National Societies to grow stronger – to be better able respond to humanitarian needs and improve the lives of vulnerable people. Through the volunteer and staff networks of National Societies, IFRC strives to bolster civil societies. This work enables both families and individuals to cope better with recurrent or prolonged disasters and crises. As a result, communities are able to protect and build on any development gainsthey have made. The Red Cross and Red Crescent contributes by supporting all members of the community to prevent or reduce risk where possible, allowing everyone to enjoy better health and safer living conditions – global threats like climate change make no distinction between rich and poor.

Humanitarian diplomacy

Adapting ways of living to a changing world also requires IFRC to advocate for supportive public policies, to influence social attitudes, and to reach out to support those marginalized by poverty, old age, migration, illness, disability and other vulnerabilities. Humanitarian diplomacy seeks to focus the attention and action of decision-makers and opinion leaders on the needs of people and communities. This is a responsibility based on the access of National Societies as auxiliariesto public authorities. The objectives of this work are to secure greater humanitarian access to people in need, foster understanding of the neutral and independent role of Red Cross and Red Crescent action, expand and diversify resources, and facilitate

Sector of Work : Meeting, Seminars, Scholarship program

Background Information : The Inter- religious and International Federation for World Peace (IIFWP) is dedicated to the promotion of world peace through education programs, workshops, conferences, and publication. The IIFWP seeks encourage and support the efforts of World leaders from all disciplines and to build coalitions among a wide range of non-governmental. religious, cultural and educational institutions in advancing solutions to pressing world problems, Of particular concern to the IIFWP are two serious and growing problems. The first revolves around family instability and breakdown and the serious social, economic, and cultural problems that family decline generates. The second concerns ethnic, racial and religious, and educational institutions work to gether, not only to reverse the decline of the family, but also to promote greater understanding and collaboration among diverse communities. As we stand at the dawn of the twenty-first century and a new millennium, peoples of all nations, races and creeds share a common hope for a world peace, justice and prosperity. Where ad the past had been marked by war, conflict, famine, poverty, and injustice we long for a future in which these tragic occurrences can be eliminated. If the human aspiration for peace is truly to be achieved, it will require a great confluence of ideas, opportunity, fortune, hard-work, and most of all the willingness to allow the goal of peace to take precedence over those religion, and ideology, as well as the pursuit of economic or political self-interest to the detriment of others. The IIFWP promotes the following moral principles which are the foundation of its vision and its programs ;

1. live for the sake of other;
2. overcome the barriers, such as nationality, religion, race and political ideology that divide peoples;
3. practice true love in the family as the foundation for peace in the society, nation and world.

The IIFWP is sponsoring a series of international Leadership Seminars around the world, promoting the IIFWP vision and development its chapter, and more importantly, appointing leaders from all fields as AMBASSADORS for PEACE. Consistent with its mission to establish world peace the Inter-religious and International Federation for World Peace designates as Ambassador for Peace those Individuals whose lives exemplify the idea of living for sake of others and who dedicate themselves to practices which promote the founding ideals of the IIFWP: universal moral values, strong family life, inter-religious cooperation, international harmony, a responsible public media, and the establishment of a culture of peace. Transcending racial, national and religious barriers, the Ambassadors for Peace contribute to the fulfillment of the hope of all ages, unified world of peace where in the spiritual and material dimensions of life are harmonized. Over the past fifty years mankind had placed its trust in the United Nations to address local and international wars, and the world we live in today has reached a point where the United Nations as its currently exist cannot successfully address this enormous challenge. In the light of, not only the mission of the United Nations, but indeed in the very history and purpose of religion itself and the essential spiritual nature of humanity, the IIFWP maintains that any successful strategy for peace must take into account the substantial, spiritual dimensions of human identity, experience and action- "Religion is simply too important to overlook". With a view to develop and eventually see a Council of Religious Leaders working within the UN, a proposition (A/58/L.13) dated Nov 10, 2003 was submitted for consideration by the UN General Assembly, by the Government of Philippines for the creation of a Religious Assembly to work in partnership with the UN General Assembly. This was done at the 58th General Assembly of the United Nations in 2003. IIFWP MYANMAR started monthly meetings in December 2002. IIFWP invites various religious leaders from all religions in Myanmar. We choose a topic for each month such as "Family values, Loving your enemy, What is Islam?" Participants make comments and discuss these issues. We try to understand other people's opinions and values. IIFWP promote respect for different cultures, ethnicities, races and religions.

Main Program/Activities	:

Far South Delta

Type of intervention : Livelihoods

Number of beneficiaries : 3,200 households (15,000 people in 25 villages)

The Irrawady Delta is a relatively hostile natural environment, with limited opportunities for livelihood development. It suffered one of the largest natural disasters in world history in 2008 when cyclone Nargis killed approximately 140,000 people, thus fully exacerbating the pre-existing conditions of the area.

Solidarités International has developed 17 projects in the past three years with either donors, and has recently completed our flagship project aiming at strengthening the livelihoods of resource-poor households in this remote area.

Activities:

- Increasing 1,000 farmer households rice-self provisioning ability by at least one month

Provision of 100 buffalos, tillage tool sets, power tillers, training on improved cultivation techniques, rat control campaign, setting up of demonstration plots, construction of 6 storm resistant storage facilities for paddy seeds

- Developing at least one supplementary source of food and income for 1,000 vulnerable households whose main livelihood was not farmin

On-the-job training, workshops, start up kits, training on pig, duck raising as well as provision of piglets and ducklings, training on crab farming, support small-scale fishery and employment of local boat builders and provision of sets of fishing gear

- Receiving immediate cash-earning opportunities for 1,200 vulnerable households for minimum 15 days

Cash for work to build new ponds, rehabilitate village roads and support monsoon paddy cultivation

Chin State

- Area of intervention : Kanpetlet Township
- Type of intervention : Food security and agriculture
- Number of beneficiaries : 10,000 people

Chin State is one of the poorest and most isolated areas of Myanmar, and Kanpetlet Township is the most remote and poor of Chin State's eight Townships. The population of Kanpetlet gets the majority of its income from slash-and-burn agriculture, still practice archery hunting, and have minimal external trade of any sort. They earn barely enough to survive with most families never having more than 5kg of rice in personal reserves. Since 2008, the Township has been massively infested by rats in a devastating natural phenomena which occurs every 48 years called the Mautam. This phenomena is related to the blossoming of a particular bamboo which attracts scores of rats -however this usually only lasts one season. Due to a plethora of natural and man-made reasons, this infestation has not slowed down for the past 4 years and has resulted in a crop, seed stock and food disaster leading to a food security crisis. SOLIDARITES INTERNATIONAL is responding with a complementary two-fold approach in these 58 villages, first providing food through WFP (donated by Canada), and then with an agriculture and rat control program funded by France's CIAA assistance.

Activities:

- Food distribution for 300 vulnerable households during lean period/hunger gap: Distribution of basic food rations during 3 months for the most affected households (In many cases, villagers walk up to 3 days to the nearest distribution points).
- Improvement of self food production for 1,600 households: Rice and corn seeds distribution, rat trap distribution, rehabilitation of roads in isolated villages to improve access to food and markets.
- Rat Control kits and training for over 400 families
- Food Security monitoring and sharing of the infos with other humanitarian actors as SOLIDARITES INTERNATIONAL is the only INGO in the remote Township

Rakhine State, Myebon Township

- Intervention area : Myebon Township
- Number of beneficiaries : 10,200 people

Reconstruction and refurbishment of Shelters for Cyclone Giri affected communities. Cyclone Giri hit Rakhine State on October 22nd 2010 affecting 260,000 people.

In January 2011, SOLIDARITES INTERNATIONAL led a joint assessment to determine that approximately 20,000 houses were destroyed and 31,000 damaged, primarily affecting Myebon and Kyauk Pyu Townships, for a total of 1/3 of the total households being affected. The situation appears even more alarming in this remote area, as the communities' livelihoods were already traditionally fragile.

The main objective of this program is to support cyclone affected communities in the coastal areas to recover the means to shelter and protect themselves during the upcoming monsoon, while raising awareness and knowledge of shelter related Disaster Risk Reduction (“DRR”).

- Provision of 475 shelter retrofitting packages to the most vulnerable households (materials and tools).
- Construction of 300 bamboo shelters
- Construction of 120 timber houses for the vulnerable families who couldn’t otherwise rebuild themselves. Identification, training and provision of toolkits and construction materials to 20 carpenters identified in target villages, including self-retrofitting by beneficiaries with technical support from DRR skilled carpenters.
- Provision of 600 cash grants to provide families with capital to self repair their homes.
- Disaster resilient shelter construction awareness training (3 sessions per village for 8 villages)

Type of intervention : Livelihoods (Agriculture and Fisheries)

Number of beneficiaries : 4,000 households

Intervention area : Myebon Township

Cyclone Giri hit Rakhine State on 22 October 2010 with total damage affecting 260,000 people. In terms of food security, substantial destructions of paddy lands and fisheries have caused lot of damages; especially because last October’s harvest was wiped out due to the cyclone just as the harvest was ready to provide enough food for the year to come. The food-producing gap is therefore very important in this area. To assist the situation, Solidarites International is supporting livelihoods recovery of the marginal economies for one full seasonal cycle.

- “Cash for work program” - restructuring projects such as embankment repairs works -for 235 households so they receive financial resources
- Distribution of rice seeds for farmers (through a voucher system), to be able to grow paddies by the next rainy season
- Distribution of nets and boats for fishery recover so they are able to resume their activities by August 2011

WASH - Social Water Management

Number of beneficiaries : 1,400 people

Intervention area : Dry zone

The Dry Zone area is one of the more critical areas in the Union where the fragile ecosystem (a result of natural and human behavior) has had adverse effects on household food security. The government are underlining the need for INGOs and donors to focus on this area, and the nearby areas surrounding their new capital of Naypyidaw.

Along with the problem of insufficient water for crop production, scarcity of water endangers the health and welfare of the population. Water resources in the villages cannot support the whole population during the dry season. The lack of safe water for both domestic use and livelihoods development is one of the most important factors behind seasonal migration.

The most common consequences are households travelling long distances during hours to fetch water, as well as the economic migrations outside of the area during the dry season.

The main objective of this program is to support livelihoods in 2 townships in the Dry Zone through sustainable exploitation and management of natural resources.

Activities:

- At least 1,400 rural households increase or diversify their agricultural production without damaging their natural resources.

Transfer of improved crops and practices to 90 farmers for soil and water conservation, development of 250 domestic rainwater collection systems, poultry re-stocking for 250 households, establishment of 2 brood stations to produce 1-month old chicks, very small scale irrigation and home gardening support to 250 households

- At least 1,000 landless and resource-poor households get new job opportunities and increased off-farm incomes

Employment of 200 labourers to rehabilitate 4 community rainwater catchment facilities and build 6 community water supply facilities, setting up of 2 Thai Jar workshops for on the job training,

- Local communities are effectively trained and supported to better manage their natural resources in 30 villages

Capacity building of 60 resource persons focusing on management skills and cross-cutting themes (e.g. gender, environment, water resources), development of community monitoring and evaluation mechanisms in 30 villages, establishment of interest groups to implement greening plans and preserve watersheds, support to 300 households for tree planting
